

Mobile Pantry

a program of The Idaho Foodbank

IMPACT REPORT

AUGUST 2018

Mobile Pantry is an effective means for The Idaho Foodbank to get food directly to people in need. Refrigerated trucks transport the food to a predetermined location, and local volunteers distribute it.

Mobiles Meet the Need

Mobile Pantries address a wide variety of hunger-relief challenges.

Many rural communities in Idaho lack a brick-and-mortar food pantry despite having a large number of food insecure families, children and seniors. With the help of local volunteers, Mobile Pantry provides monthly food support.

Mobile Pantries also deliver food to areas of need in urban centers, such as low-income apartment complexes for seniors or neighborhoods where a high percentage of students qualify for free or reduced lunches.

Mobile Pantries are an integral part of The Idaho Foodbank's hunger-to-health initiative. Through partnerships with health care providers, food distributions include free health screenings.

Mobile Pantry is delivering results for Idahoans in need.

Making a Real Difference

With the help of volunteers, Mobile Pantry takes hunger relief to the people who need it most.

Food insecurity is an issue for many of our patients, so having a food distribution here on site is a real benefit.

People here can't afford much and most don't have transportation. This food really means a lot.

People in this town don't have many food options. The nearest big grocery store is 50 miles away.

Volunteer, Community Mobile

The Idaho Foodbank is an independent, donor-supported, nonprofit organization founded in 1984, and is the largest distributor of free food assistance in Idaho. From warehouses in Boise, Lewiston and Pocatello, the Foodbank distributes around 1.5 million pounds of food each month through a network of more than 400 community partners. These include schools, food pantries, emergency shelters, feeding sites, and senior centers. The Foodbank also operates direct-service programs that promote healthy families and communities through good nutrition.
